St. Mark's Church, Mill Cove

Hello everyone,

We would love to wish you all a very Happy Thanksgiving. Another year has passed too quickly and we are blessed to be here. We have been so fortunate to have Rev Ann Turner still supporting us by celebrating Holy Communion twice per month and the commitment of our wonderful Lay Ministry team and Rev Jerry to continue with their services and their ministry with home visitations. This time of year is a great time to reach out and join a committee or find something that you may enjoy taking part in within the church!

We are grateful for our music ministry of Peter Grant, and Donnie and Carol Webb, and Joanne Eldershaw who continue to bring our voices to praise God through song! We appreciate everyone who contributes in any way to the life of the church and service to the community.

Please come and join us for communion with Rev Ann on Thanksgiving Sunday. You are always welcome!

Blessings to all,
Susan and Wayne

Author Event

An evening of Author Readings, sponsored by Hubbards Writers and Aspotogan Heritage Trust was held in the sanctuary of St. Luke's Church on the evening of September 5th. An audience of some 40 people heard five Nova Scotia authors read passages from their latest works. Shown is Sarah Mian of Queensland reading from her novel, The World in Awful Sleep, which is a ghost story set in a Nova Scotia church.

An ornamental cane presented to The Reverend Joseph Norwood. As a young man Joe left Nova Scotia for the United States in the mid 1800's. He got involved in the Civil War where he served in the Union Army as a medic. During this time he felt the call to the ministry. In return for his training he agreed to spend a period of time in West Africa as a missionary. He later returned to the US and eventually back to Nova Scotia where he became, around 1890, the rector of St. Luke's Parish where he remained for about 10 years. It was during his term that St. Luke's Church finally got the tall spire on the bell tower. Rev Joe's son Robert also became a priest. He was briefly his father's curate in Hubbards. He eventually moved to the US where he was the longtime rector of St Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in New York City and a well known speaker and author. The cane was donated to the parish by Edmund B. (Ned) Norwood who still resides in Hubbards.

ACW would like to thank all those who donated, baked, helped to set-up/tear-down, work the sale and those who came out to the Shore Club for our 77th Annual Variety Show on August 5th. Many thanks also to the Harnish Family and to Amy and Jason Reid. We made $3,024.50 at this year's very successful show. Great Effort!
